

FRIENDSHIP

In honor of the educators at my school, this story is dedicated to them.

In the land of Australia, nestled near the coast, resided a contented turtle named George. He shared his joyful habitat with a younger brother and a sister, both of whom brought additional delight to their close-knit family. Together, the trio lived harmoniously, relaxing in the love and happiness that adorned their lives.

George cherished the bond he shared with his siblings, Sara and Henry. From their early childhood days to their adventures in adulthood, their love for one another only grew stronger. As they navigated through the journey of life, they made a firm promise to never part ways, even in the face of most riskiest circumstances.

Soon it was time for them to venture into the ocean. Together they tried to make new buddies to spend their time with.

But to their grief, everyone would turn around and reject them. Henry had lost hope, and so had George. But Sarah encouraged them to keep moving. But still nobody accepted them, Until...

One day, they saw a crab trapped in a plastic bag. The trio felt sorry for it and decided to help. The crab came out and thanked them for rescuing it.

The crab said, "Thank you for helping me. My name is Chrissy, what are yours?" Henry felt happy that someone was talking to them. So, he replied, "I'm Henry. He's my brother George and my sister Sarah. Nice to meet you. Would you like to join us on our journey to achieve friendship??"

Chrissy happily replied, “Sure. Where do you live?”. Sarah replied, “We do not have a home. We travel around the ocean trying to make friends. But the thing is that everyone ignores and rejects us.” Chrissy replied, “Oh, but now since I know you guys, why not stay with me?”

“Really? we would be delighted to!” Chrissy then told, “Come on, let me show you my house.” It was a beautiful cave! It had colorful corals, crystals and pebbles. From that day, Chrissy and the trio spent their time together.

One day, they saw an orca being pulled up by some fishermen in a net. They got angry. So, Chrissy, with the help of her sharp claws, cut the net and the orca came out happily.

“Thanks a lot, you both. I’m Olivia, What are your names?” “I’m Chrissy and this is my friend George. Nice to meet you.” Olivia replied, “Hi George, hi Chrissy, hey Henry, Hi Sarah nice to meet you too.”

George thought something was wrong with Olivia. So he asked, “What’s the matter, you seem upset. Is there anything we can do for you?”

Olivia replied, “The thing is that since I’m the only living orca here, everyone thinks that there is something wrong with me because my family left me due to fishers. That’s why I’m alone most of the time. So, do you consider taking me along with you guys on our journey?”.

Laughing, George replied, “Of course Olivia, there is no need to ask.” Crissy replied to that, “Exactly!”. On that note, Olivia danced with joy.

And from that moment, they helped everyone who would be in trouble, but nobody would bother to say thank you. But since they were such good friends, they did not mind.

Soon, they started to move to the shore to help people. But Olivia could not. So, they decided to meet up again after two months. So, Chrissy, George, Henry and Sarah went up together to the shore and Olivia went into the depths of the ocean

On the shore, they met with a Larry the Water Lizard, who had been trapped in an old soda can. In the ocean, Olivia met Delphi the dolphin, who had been abandoned by her group.

Two months passed, nobody else was in trouble, which is a good thing. As two months hit, all the seven, Delphi, George, Henry, Sarah, Chrissy, Larry and Olivia met and spent time knowing each other. After a while, they became like siblings and they lived harmoniously together.

They helped people who had been facing the same problems that they had. But in return they showed arrogance and went away. But to them, nothing but their friendship mattered. They lived happily ever after.
