

MOUNTAIN MIXTURE

by E. W

I dedicate this book to all the teachers who I work with for encouraging me to never give up.

E.W

As the sun rose in the beautiful blue sky, Pine and Pennie stretched slowly while the birds tweeted noisily.

The warm sun touched Pine's skin. Today was the perfect day to go somewhere beautiful and cold. It was burning!

Although it was boiling today, Pine and Pennie would not let it spoil the fun. They decided to go to the Snowy Mountains. After their dog Sydney woke up, the two penguins dashed to their car.

Their dad pushed Pennie's heavy bag in the car. Whiz!
the car raced like a ball of fire.

After hours of sitting in the car, and glancing at all the different cars passing by, the car finally stopped.

Pine and Pennie hopped out of the car with Sydney.

After climbing up the mountain, Pine and Pennie started making snowmans. Sydney ran off to a corner with lots of plants.

Sydney then came back with a pretty plant in her mouth. Then, she dropped it on the snow.

"Thanks Sydney!" Pine and Pennie said while admiring the pretty plant on the snow.

Suddenly, Pine's face turned pale. "Are you ok Pine? You look like you saw a ghost!" Pennie gasped. "It's Poisin Ivy!" Pine shrieked. At the same time, Sydney's fur started to itch.

"Quick call our parents on your watch!" Pennie shouted miserably.

Pennie carefully put Sydney in her tote bag just as their dad arrived. "Whee!" Pine and Pennie yelped while sliding down the mountain.

When they arrived home, Pennie immediately tucked Sydney safely into her bed. Sydney was definitely feeling better!

Pennie took off her beanie and yawned. She then tucked herself into her comfortable bed.

Soon, Sydney was well again. The two penguins celebrated and played with Sydney all afternoon.

About the author

Emily is nine years old. She lives in Australia. She likes to play with her puppy. She wrote this book because she loves animals, especially the Artic fox.

Sydney accidentally gets sick because she left her owners! This story tells you to stay with trusted people at all times. Pine and Pennie have to help their dog!

MOUNTAIN MIXTURE

by E. W