

NOT

COOL

BULLY

BULLY

Written and illustrated by Remy D

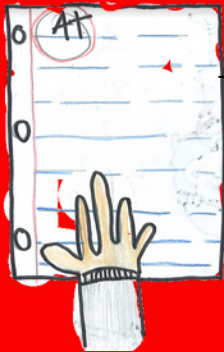

My name is Remy D. I am currently 10 years old and I live in Australia. Many people are interested to know that my hobbies include reading, sleeping and eating. Most of the time I surround myself with people that I care about. Some of those people are Penelope, my friend, Sacha, my sister and Felix, my brother. I enjoy writing about things that happen in real life so the world is aware what happens around them.

Lilly stood waiting in a dusty old crowded classroom as the evening summer sun glared down on her.

The teacher sat quietly marking her test.

The thrilling bell pierced the air, just as the teacher finished marking her test. "There you go", her teacher remarked as she handed Lilly her sheet.

She grabbed her page muttering, "thank you" as she went, and quickly shuffled away towards the already crowded playground.

But before she had got halfway she saw something that made her eyes pop and her ears fill with steam.

It was the school bully, Ben and he was bullying a student.

THIS IS NOT OK, she thought as she watched, trying to decide what to do.

She made up her mind,
and strolling up to the bully she yelled, "How dare you hurt a student
that did nothing, you
slimy frog!

She took a shallow breath.

He just laughed and shoved her. His minions laughed and made silly faces at her.

She glared at him, he glared at her, and the minions laughed. She turned to the girl that was being bullied and nodded.

The girl that was being bullied took action
and ran as fast as a fast spreading bullet.

At that moment and that moment only she wondered how Ben had managed to track her down.

She found out a second later because Ben held her down and pinned her to a tree by her collar. "Don't think you can get away from me" he stated, clearly not wanting a answer.

Though she didn't have time to answer because at that exact moment the teacher came up to us cursing and tapping his foot.

Ben instantly let go of her and looked at the teacher in a mix of fear and hate. He ran, but the bullied girl caught up to him in an instant and whispered something to him.

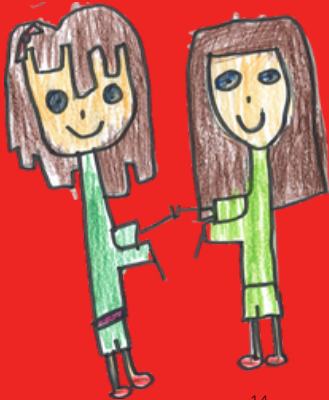

Ben's face turned chalk white. Lilly cheered as the teacher said, "good job Maviry" and Maviry smiled.

The teacher went up to Maviry and took Ben up to the principal's office.

Lilly went over to Maviry and introduced herself.

Maviry smiled
and thankyou, it was my go to smile, and say
your welcome.

The trilling of the bell came
and we set off to class
smiling the whole way.

This must be the start of a
<sup>15</sup> good relationship.

As Lilly exits the classroom she sees something she wishes would not happen. Does Lilly interfere or not? If she does what happens? Read on to find out.

BULLY

BULLY