

Pengi Breaks Free

By Olivia Tan

This book is dedicated to you to show you about kindness and to treat people the way you want to be treated.

It was another freezing and cold day in Antarctica. The bright sun was shining and the freezing, cold snow was dropping down on the ground, while the enormous icebergs were shaking.

Then came Pengi, a penguin but not any ordinary penguin, he was rather peculiar. When Pengi was little he always wanted to help people for fun. As he grew up it felt like it was a habit instead, not a bad one but good.

Pengi suddenly felt a bit hungry “I could use a snack” Pengi said and walked away.

Pengi was hungry and starving for food, Pengi felt like he wanted to cry because he had no hope in finding anything to eat.

Pengi waddled all the way to the water hoping he would find some food and jumped in splashing everywhere! While swimming, Pengi saw Blune trapped in the coral yelling for help, no one helped except for Pengi, he rescued Blune and swam away.

When Pengi came out of the water
he was soaking wet everywhere!
Then he went to look for food on the land.

While Pengi was walking around, he stumbled across a lovely but random fish in front of him

“Hmm that’s odd, there’s a strange fish in front of me, but I never turn down food!”

Pengi said and he ate the fish.

While Pengi was chewing on the fish, he thought he heard a tiny voice of laughter but he ignored it and then KABOOM!! A cage fell on him, he was trapped!

When Pengi opened his eyes he gasped because there was a witch in front of him! “Hahaha” the witch laughed “ Soon I’m going to EAT YOU!!” The witch shouted out loud.

“P-please don’t eat me!” Pengi cried out loudly “It’s too LATE, get ready to be EATEN hahaha” the witch laughed out loud. There was no hope, Pengi was going to get eaten by the witch no matter what.

Pengi was hoping for a miracle while shivering, he closed his eyes and trembled until... Blune jumped out of the water and splashed everywhere and pushed the witch to the ground and unlocked the cage.

“How did you find me?” Pengi said “When you saved me I was was so happy but there was one missing part, I wanted to pay you back so when I heard loud voices I wanted to see who that was, and I saw you trapped in a cage so I tried to save you.” Blune said, he smiled and they became friends.

The End
