

prof and Stan

BY ADRIAN CALEB DSILVA

Dedicated to -

My parents - Ashika Agnes Monteiro & Vijay
Collin Dsilva

There was a boy named Stanislav. He loved zoology so much, that one day he decided to have a walk in the forest.

He asked his mother whether he could and surprisingly his mother agreed, but he had been told to take a phone and a tent to put in his bag. He rushed and packed his bag.

"Hello, my name is Professor Orangutan, you can call me

Prof!" said the orangutan. "Hey Prof, What's up" said Stanislav "My name is Stanislav but you can call me Stan. In fact, I can hear you!" "Good name, yes, some people can hear me." Prof said.

As he was leaving he thought "Oh wow, my mom let me to go to a forest, I will see amazing animals!" Thinking about this he went deeper and deeper into the forest and he got lost, suddenly he met an orangutan.

"I think you are hungry." I know a place where you can find some tasty and juicy grapes. Do you want some?" Professor asked. Stanislav replied "Of course, Thanks Professor."

On the way they were swinging tree branches, jumping and running. They were talking about a life of an orangutan, about the pollution and destruction of their habitat. Believe it or not after hearing all about Professor's life, he wanted to be an orangutan.

“Could do you do something for us all?” asked Professor.
“Of course” replied Stanislav. Professor asked “Could you start a campaign on Stop Pollution.” Stanislav was willing to help the professor.

As they reached the grape plants they both ate bunches of grapes. Then Stanislav asked "Could you be my guide, because I am lost... also could I take some grapes to my mom. They are Super duper tasty". "Sure!" replied Professor. "Do you want to meet the squirrels" asked Professor. "Let's go" said Stanislav.

When they reached, a squirrel named Ashika said, "Hello Professor, Just in time for our Acorny Festival!". "Happy nutty day, oh and by the way, we have a guest his name is Stanislav" said Prof. "Hi Ashika and Happy Acorny Day" Stanislav said.

"You could have some nuts" said Ashika. "Some for you and some for our wonderful guest." she said while giving them the nuts.

“Do you mind if I take some nuts back home,” Stanislav asked. “Of course, of course. Do you want seconds.” she asked. “No, thanks. Even if these are mouthwatering” he said drooling.

"You would love to meet Randy Rabbit" she said. "Do you know the way Professor?" she asked. "Of course I do" Prof replied. "I need to go to give my acorny hayeys to him" Ashika said. "You can come with us" Professor said. Ashika and Professor sat on my shoulders. When they reached the rabbit. Ashika gave the acorny hayeys.

Randy said "These are tasty". Do you want some? asked Randy. They sure look tasty said Stanislav and Professor, their mouths were dribbling. You both can have some said Randy and gave them some.

They heard something ring. Then Stanislav said "My mom is calling now". So he answered and said "Hi mom". "Hi Stan, Come home now lunch is ready" his mom replied. "Ok mom" he replied. He said "Bye friends, I have to go for lunch". They all replied "Bye Stanislav."

When he reached home and ate lunch, he told his mom about the whole story and gave the food. His mom said the food was really tasty. He also told his mom that he wanted to start the campaign on how the pollutions around us can be controlled.

The next day, he started by telling his friends in his school to make posters on Stop Pollution, to hang the posters on their neighborhood and tell other people about it.

They started by telling the Village carpenter, Lumberjacker to grow trees when he cuts them.

Then they told the hunters to stop killing animals. They stopped doing actions that were harmful to the environment.

Please stop

After about a year, on one fine morning Stanislav decided to go to the forest to remember his friends. On the way he met an Orangutan. It was really familiar. "Can it be...." he said "it's Professor." Yes, my friend. It's me Professor.

Our

King Thundercloud has told there is a feast because we are not threatened now, come in the afternoon. Stanislav was startled, he quickly went home and got ready and went in the afternoon and saw King Thunderhorn. We had a mighty feast.

Then Thunderhorn said "For your help to our kingdom we award you the brainy potion and the helper potion. The brainy potion will make you smart and the helper potion can do anything to help". "This is too much of thanking" said Stanislav. "No, take these potions. You have saved the whole animal kingdom by your small help to us" said Thunderhorn. "Thanks" said Stanislav.

From now on he used his potions to help others only for a good cause. He also received awards for his excellence, braveness and help. He also wrote a book. Yes, it's the one you are reading now.

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

I am Adrian and I am from India. In my spare time, I like to play cricket and play chess. I love reading and writing stories. I wrote this story, because I want to spread awareness about pollution.

'Prof and Stan' is based on the friendship of a boy 'Stanislav' and an orangutan 'Professor', their paths collide as Stanislav goes to the forest, they also meet a squirrel and a rabbit. Then they decide that, Stanislav will save the world from pollution and gets awarded for it.

BY ADRIAN CALEB DSILVA