

The Beach Clean-up

Rashida Kapadia

Dedicated to Lelas

It was another bubbly day at the Fishdom for Magnus the crab and her best buddy; Downy the clownfish as they were exploring underwater.

They would frequently scout the wide Fishdom out of sheer curiosity. They'd always find something new and intriguing.

Magnus and Downy were extremely worried about the environment and the increase of pollution.

An underwater scene with a clownfish swimming towards the right. In the bottom left, two crabs are on a rock. In the bottom right, there is a pile of trash including a green bottle, a red can, a white bottle, and a yellow object. The background is a dark blue cave with some light blue fish swimming in the distance.

Following their regular exploration, They'd try to clean the waters and the beach. Collecting all the trash in an abandoned cave.

Magnus was just done cleaning, when a bag of chips fell down and she swam up to find the culprit.

She found Gabby; the little girl sitting there. "Were you the one who threw that bag of chips?" she enquired, eventually finding that Gabby threw the bag.

Magnus politely confronted Gabby by taking her underwater and showing her the huge pile of trash. Guilty, Gabby accepts her mistake.

Over the days, the pollution rises rapidly and Downy gets ill because of it. It became harder for Magnus to clean the beach and the Fishdom.

Once, while Magnus was cleaning, she saw a group of young children moving forward towards the beach led by Gabby.

The children start cleaning the beach and the waters. Gabby and the group had assisted Magnus tremendously.

Slowly, Downy recovered and the atmosphere underwater was cheerful once again.

Magnus and Downy thanked Gabby for her aid. They become best friends and always helped each other out.

My name is Rashida, I am twelve years old and I am from UAE. In my spare time, I love to draw, swim and read books.

I wanted to share a message all over the world for problems we need to face which will help in the betterment of people. I dream of being a teacher and living in a world that is clean and filled with peace, a world without conflict.

'The Beach Clean-up' tells you the story of Magnus the crab and how she is against pollution. It also shows the support of her friends throughout the book. Magnus is determined to get rid of waste on the beach as much as she can and along the way she makes a new friend. Experience the journey of Magnus and her friends as they hope to make things right.
